COMMUNICATION MATTERS

Communicating with your child's teacher and school

	Schools have channels of communication e.g. Facebook, newsletter, email. Use them and check them regularly.
	Your child's teacher will let you know the best way to contact them during this time.
	Write down your questions as they come to mind. Where can I find this information? e.g. school newsletter. Do I still need to contact the teacher or school?
	Be respectful in your communications. Remember, office and teaching staff may also be working remotely and managing their home/work environment.
	Teachers may use different online platforms and virtual classroom spaces to communicate with your children. These may vary across a school as different platforms are more suited different age groups.

Remember teachers will be communicating individually with many students and their families.

Remind your child that they may need to be patient as teachers answer questions or give feedback.
